3rd Reading. Senator Manar, for what purpose do you seek recognition?

SENATOR MANAR:

Thank you, Mr. President. For a point of personal privilege.

PRESIDING OFFICER: (SENATOR CUNNINGHAM)

State your point.

SENATOR MANAR:

I would like to ask my colleagues to -- to pause for a moment so that -- so that we can recognize the work of Becky Locker, as this is her last official Session day, Mr. President, as our Appropriations Director. I would tell you - I think I can say this on the Senate Floor - that when I was -- years ago, when Becky was hired and I was the Budget Director here at the Senate for our caucus, the staff knew I got down to business when I started to call them by their initials of their first and their last name. So you may not know that Becky's maiden name was Souther. So her name was Becky Souther. So her first and last initials didn't work very well when she was hired, but I used them anyway. I would tell you that Becky came into the Senate from, I would say, an untraditional path. I remember Linda Hawker handing me her resume that came from Rosa Orama and Linda impressed upon the management at the time how impressive this young woman was. And she was hired to start appropriation work. This is how good she was. This is how good Becky was at her job. There were moments in time when she would come into my office exhausted from the work here, where she would literally say to me, "I don't know if I can keep doing this." And as a young staffer, it's a little overwhelming. You -- you go through these -- these phases of starts and stops, and the good staffers pause and ask themselves the questions whether or not they can -- they can survive here. Many don't. Most don't, frankly. Many spend years here perfecting their craft, and then there's a few that keep going, like Becky Locker, who truly perfect the difficult work of -- of the Senate. And she did it while getting married and having two kids along the way. So, Becky, the Pritzker administration's gain is our loss as an institution. Your work is unprecedented as a young woman in the State Senate, working your way through the hierarchy here on our staff. And I know that I appreciate your work. But I would just end by telling you this: I am so proud of you. I am so proud of you and the work that you have done. And I feel so privileged to watch you and have watched you grow over the years, starting at the first day you walked into the Stratton Building to start analyzing your first budget. Congratulations to you on a job well done. I am so proud of you and I wish you the best in your next step in life.

PRESIDING OFFICER: (SENATOR CUNNINGHAM)

Senator Righter, for what purpose do you seek recognition?

SENATOR RIGHTER:

On a point of personal privilege, if I might, Mr. President.

PRESIDING OFFICER: (SENATOR CUNNINGHAM)

State your point.

SENATOR RIGHTER:

Thank you. I would also like to address Becky's departure from the Senate. And I -- I think we have, to some extent, started a new trend of bipartisan recognition of staff, regardless of what side of the aisle they come from, and that is nothing but a good thing. The hardest -- one of the hardest things about this job is to see good people go. The only good news that I took from Becky's telling me a couple days ago that she was going to be leaving the Senate was that she is staying in the building. We never like to see capable, diligent, talented people leave the circles in which we are working. But we are blessed that you are just going to the next cut; you're not going too far that -- public service, Becky, needs people like you and, specifically, this building needs people who are -- are -- are cognizant of the fact that they have to represent the people for whom they work or the caucus that they represent but appreciate the balance of the openness that is necessary in order to achieve that which is sometimes difficult to achieve, and you have struck that balance perfectly. So, Becky, thank you for your service to the Senate. And thank you, Mr. President.
PRESIDING OFFICER: (SENATOR CUNNINGHAM)
    Senator Steans, for what purpose do you seek recognition?
SENATOR STEANS:
    On a point of personal privilege.
PRESIDING OFFICER: (SENATOR CUNNINGHAM)
    State your point.
SENATOR STEANS:
    I -- okay, I -- I'm going to apologize. I already hear myself, cracking in my voice. I apologize, but this is a tough one for me. Becky -- you know, when I started being Approp Chair, Becky was there, already working. And I just have learned so much from you, Becky. Just your intellect, your sheer knowledge of what's going on in the budget. I think your calm demeanor. I don't think I've ever seen you get upset. Your creative problem-solving, you know, and your ability to generate trust from everybody who -- who sort of interacts with you around what we're trying to do in the budget and you really enabled us to get to a lot more good creative problem-solving because of all those skills you brought to the table, Becky. You're going to be a huge loss to this institution, but I'm very glad you're not far away. You better stay in touch with all of us here, and I know we will be as we talk about our capital projects as well. Sorry for that. So I'm going to keep it short because otherwise I'm going to have more challenges in keeping myself together. I'm really going to miss you, Becky. You've been a huge, huge source of support and just really knowledge for me here in the Senate. Thank you.
Senator Hunter, for what purpose do you seek recognition?

SENATOR HUNTER:
Personal privilege, please.

PRESIDING OFFICER: (SENATOR CUNNINGHAM)
State your point.

SENATOR HUNTER:
Thank you. Becky, I was really surprised the other day we were in caucus and President Harmon mentioned that you had -- you were leaving. And I said, "Well, where are you going?" You said, "Over to IDOT." And I am really going to miss you, because Becky can tell you, a thought will come to my mind on a weekend, it could be on a Saturday afternoon, a Saturday night, Sundays, I can call Becky. And I know she's probably saying, "Here she go again. Here she go again." But she never said that or she never sounded as if she wasn't very happy that I'm calling her on weekends, you know. And -- but she always took my question, she gave me the answers, and she always indicated that she would follow up with me the next day or she'll have someone else to follow up on the next day. And so I remember when I got here. You -- you've moved up consistently on a regular basis and that shows your professionalism and that you are a very quick learner and you learn quickly on a regular basis. So I'm going to miss you, Becky. I wish you well, but I will never take your phone number out of my book. Thank you very much and I wish you well.

PRESIDING OFFICER: (SENATOR CUNNINGHAM)

Senator Sims, for what purpose do you seek recognition?

SENATOR SIMS:
Point of personal privilege, Mr. President.

PRESIDING OFFICER: (SENATOR CUNNINGHAM)
State your point.

SENATOR SIMS:

Becky, thank you so much for the work that you've done, the example you've been for our caucus, for making sure that we are able to put -- put forth a professional budget that is done in the spirit of excellence on behalf of the people of Illinois. I think it's important for all of us to look in the back of the room at the young people who are standing there supporting Becky as she -- as she moves on. This is what we intend for all of our staffs on both sides of the aisle, for them to be developed and then to -- to perfect their craft and then go on into bigger and better things. So, Becky, I am so -- so -- so pleased and proud to have worked with you. Having been an Appropriations Director, I -- I know how difficult the days are. I -- I know, I looked in your face, as we did the last budget -- as you had your final budget night here, and I know the challenges that you experienced during that time and the -- all of the challenges that you -- you -- you -- you go through as you put that -- that -- that proposal -- as you go through that proposal and put that package together that the Members are going to -- to go through. So I just want you to know how much that we appreciate you, and I think it's a testament to the work that you do and the staff that you have put -- put forth that you see the positive words coming from both sides of the aisle to talk about you and all of the great things you've done. So thank you. Again, I -- I -- I echo the sentiments that the administration's gain is our loss, but I know you're not very far away. So thank you so much for being who you've been.

PRESIDING OFFICER: (SENATOR CUNNINGHAM)

Senator Gillespie, for what purpose do you seek recognition?
SENATOR GILLESPIE:

Becky, I just want to say, as a -- as a freshman, one of the things that I would often get asked back home is what was one of things that was most surprising to me coming here. And the first answer I always give is, I was so excited to see the level of support we got in these roles coming in new. And you've been a prime example of that. Before inauguration, you were willing to take meetings with me, to help explain things. You never, in any way, acted like it was a waste of your time or an infringement, and it made it so much easier to transition to this role. In the Governor's Office, I have no doubt you're going to be working with some people that are going to be new to government and I know that they're going to have a terrific mentor in you being there. Thanks so much.

PRESIDING OFFICER: (SENATOR CUNNINGHAM)

Senator Bush, for what purpose do you seek recognition?

SENATOR BUSH:

Thank you very much, Mr. President. So, as someone who was not the head of an Appropriations Committee, I -- I'd just really like to thank you for everything you've done for all of us, and your amazing, uncanny ability to remember everything. And I'm going to bring something up that happened lately that I was truly stunned. So I have a project in my district that, frankly, didn't get funded, and, you know, and I was in the President's Office recently, our past President, and Becky was in the office and I said, "Yeah, so, you know, this didn't get funded." Explained it. And he looked at me and he asked me some questions about it — and these are conversations I'd had prior — and Becky looked up and said, "It's the first project Senator Bush asked for when she got here, and she's asked about it several times." I was -- with all the details she remembers and has to deal with, all the numbers, all the figures, which is just so impressive to all of us, that you remembered a project that I questioned about in my district just really speaks to the level of detail and how much you cared about each and every one of us and making sure that we were taken care of. I just wish you the best. I'm thrilled that you're going to be at IDOT, 'cause I have a project I'd like to talk to you about. But, anyway, just all the best to you. We will miss you. It's part of life to say goodbye to amazing things. So, anyway, thank you.

PRESIDING OFFICER:  (SENATOR CUNNINGHAM)

Senator Belt, for what purpose do you seek recognition?

SENATOR BELT:

Point of personal privilege. Thank you, Mr. President.

PRESIDING OFFICER:  (SENATOR CUNNINGHAM)

State your point.

SENATOR BELT:

To Becky: Being a freshman, trying to get caught up to capacity on just capital bill and this budget, I would often reach out to my predecessor, James Clayborne, and say, "James, what did you do", or "How did you go about doing this during the last capital bill", or "What projects did you -- did you, you know, identify?" And he would say, "Oh, it's easy, just reach out and ask Becky." And so I would ask Becky. And so when -- whenever bumps came up having to do with the budget or -- or anything like that, I would reach out to James and James would say, "Oh, don't worry about it, just ask Becky." And so I would -- find myself often asking Becky and Becky would always come through. I remember one night in particular I sent her an email, had to be like 1 o'clock in the morning, and at 1:05 came a response, and I'm like, "Wow", you know. So Becky I just want to thank you. You -- you -- you helped me gain some valuable insight and knowledge through this whole budgetary process. And, again, you did it with the calm and the cool, as cool as the other side of the pillow, and I thank you.

PRESIDING OFFICER: (SENATOR CUNNINGHAM)

Our last speaker is President Harmon. President Harmon, for what purpose do you seek recognition?

SENATOR HARMON:

Thank you, Mr. President. A point of personal privilege.

PRESIDING OFFICER: (SENATOR CUNNINGHAM)

State your point.

SENATOR HARMON:

Thank you, Mr. President, Ladies and Gentlemen of the Senate. Perhaps the most important, albeit inconvenient, thing we do is to allow and encourage our best and brightest talents to move on to new and bigger challenges. And while I don't have the same depth of experience with Becky as Senator Steans and Senator Manar, it is clear to all of us that you are among our best and brightest. And for all of us, you have been an invaluable asset as we have tried to navigate the budget process. The Senate has a proud tradition of promoting its alumni into other roles in government and I am very pleased that you have chosen to continue your public service at IDOT. You are a credit to the Senate and will always be a part of the Senate family. I also personally want to thank you for your -- your generosity and your graciousness in our recent transition. I am sorry to see you go, but I am thrilled for your new opportunities. And, again, you will always be part of the Senate family. Thank you so much for everything you’ve done.

Senator Sims, for what purpose do you seek recognition?

SENATOR SIMS:

Point of personal privilege, Mr. President.

PRESIDING OFFICER:  (SENATOR CUNNINGHAM)

State your point.

SENATOR SIMS:

Mr. President, on March 2nd, 2020, we were saddened to learn the -- the passing of former Chief Justice Charles E. Freeman, born on December 12th, 1933 in Richmond, Virginia. The descendants of formerly enslaved people, Mr. -- Mr. -- Chief Justice Freeman's family adopted the -- the surname "Freeman" as an ode to their newly found status and freedom from enslavement. A long-time resident of the City of Chicago, Chief Justice Freeman earned his Bachelor's {sic} (Bachelor) of Arts degree from the -- from Virginia Union University in 1954 and his Juris Doctor from the John Marshall Law School in 1962. Chief Justice Freeman had a long and distinguished professional and public career, where he served as an assistant attorney general, an assistant state's attorney, and an attorney for the Board of Election Commissioners. He was appointed as an arbitrator to the Illinois Industrial Commission in January of 1965 and served in that capacity until -- September 1973, where in -- in September of 1973 until December of 1976, he served as a commissioner on the Illinois Commerce Commission, having been appointed by former Governor Otto Kerner and confirmed by the Illinois Senate. Justice Freeman engaged in the general practice of law from 1962 to -- through September of 1976, when he was elected to the circuit -- Illinois circuit court. He served there for ten years on the Cook County circuit -- on the -- Cook County circuit court, and while a circuit court judge, he became the first African American to swear in a mayor of the City of Chicago, his good friend Harold Washington. In 1986, Justice Freeman was elected to the appellate -- to the Illinois appellate court, where he served as a presiding judge of the 3rd Division and a member of the 1st District Executive Committee. On November 6, 1990, in a 1st Judicial District election to fill the Illinois Supreme Court vacancy of Seymour Simon, Justice Freeman defeated Robert Chapman Buckley and won election to the Illinois Supreme Court, the first African American to serve on the court. On May 12th, 1997, he received the honor of being selected by his fellow justices to serve as chief justice, also becoming the first African American to serve in that position, where he served until January 1st, 2000. On June 14th, 2018, the fifth longest-serving justice in Illinois Supreme Court -- Court history, at twenty-seven years, six months, retired, bringing a close to a distinguished legal and public service career spanning more than five decades. Chief Justice Freeman was walking black history. And it's ironic that we would lose this giant of the legal community at the end of -- of -- at the end of -- after the close of Black History Month, but it's further evidence that black history is not confined to February, but it occurs throughout the year and -- because African American history is inextricably weaved into the fabric of Illinois and American history. On a personal note, after winning the primary to -- going to the Illinois House, I was tapped to fill the unexpired term of my predecessor. I reached out to Justice Freeman at that time, who was a long-time family friend, and asked him, would he do me the honor of swearing me in. At that time, he only had three questions - When? Where? And how long? He never wavered. He never asked any questions. He was -- he was always there to make sure that that process went off. He opened up the Illinois Supreme Court to my family to make sure that we could -- we could -- they could be there to share that day with me. In his -- in his statement during that day, he said, "It's important for us to savor moments." I've -- I always appreciated that. I always appreciated his commitment to a spirit of excellence. I always committed -- appreciated his commitment to public service. I always appreciated his commitment to the law. So, rest well, Justice Freeman. Your impact is immeasurable and your legacy is one where you blazed trails for those who cannot speak for themselves while giving a voice to the downtrodden and marginalized of our communities. Mr. President, I know that others would like to speak, but, at the appropriate time, I would ask that we -- the Senate all rise and engage in a moment to silence.

PRESIDING OFFICER: (SENATOR CUNNINGHAM)

Senator Hunter, for what purpose do you seek recognition?
SENATOR HUNTER:

Personal privilege, Mr. President.

PRESIDING OFFICER: (SENATOR CUNNINGHAM)

Please state your point.

SENATOR HUNTER:

On a personal note, I'd like to just share that I was a youth growing up in public housing in Chicago. I -- I started -- I got involved in politics when I was fifteen years old, and we called him "Charlie" Freeman. Okay? And I didn't know nothing about politics. I -- I, you know, emptied the garbage. My friends called me a gopher at that time. But they don't do it now because, you know, I've risen high above them. But, anyway, Justice Freeman came out of the 3rd Ward, politically, and I got a chance to meet him. Didn't have a whole lot of time to -- to talk to him, but I just saw him move around. Everyone knew him. Everyone had a lot of respect for him. And I believe that he received if not all of his political training, then most of his political training and community service from the 3rd Ward. And I'm just happy to -- to -- to have -- to have had the opportunity to rub elbows with him and come from the same political organization that he came from. He will be greatly missed. I've learned a lot from Judge Freeman and I'll never forget him. Thank you very much.

PRESIDING OFFICER: (SENATOR CUNNINGHAM)

President Harmon, for what purpose do you seek recognition?

SENATOR HARMON:

Thank you, Mr. President. A point of personal privilege.

PRESIDING OFFICER: (SENATOR CUNNINGHAM)

Please state your point.

SENATOR HARMON:
I recently had the -- the privilege of a tour of the Supreme Court and met with a couple Supreme Court justices, and I was particularly struck by the unsolicited esteem in which they held Justice Freeman and the genuine affection they had for him. He left a lasting legacy on that court and certainly in the community, and it's a shame that it's only in a moment of passing that we tally up all of the incredible accomplishments. I did not know Justice Freeman well. I've been friends with his son Kevin since our law school days. But I think our children are certainly a testament to who we are, and by that measure alone, Justice Freeman was a success. So I wanted to rise to recognize his career and also, on behalf of the Senate, to extend condolences to his family and to his friends. He will be missed, but he was and will always be a giant.

PRESIDING OFFICER: (SENATOR CUNNINGHAM)

Senator Sims has requested a moment of silence in memory of Justice Freeman. Ladies and Gentlemen, please rise for a moment of silence. (Moment of silence observed) Mr. Secretary, Messages from the House.
